Chaucer appoints new A&H Treaty Underwriter to build London capabilities

Chaucer, the international specialty (re)insurance group, is pleased to announce that Sarfraz Pivano has joined as Accident & Health Treaty Underwriter in the Reinsurance Division. Sarfraz will write general personal accident, life, disability, medical expenses and travel reinsurance and report to Chris Baker, Head of Specialty Treaty at Chaucer.

The appointment of Sarfraz highlights Chaucer's commitment to comprehensive A&H catastrophe treaty solutions for brokers and clients worldwide and builds on the capabilities of Chaucer's Copenhagen office, where Ewa Douwe Hut leads the A&H treaty account. The appointment also supports plans for a broader A&H reinsurance offering from Chaucer.

Sarfraz joins from Transatlantic Reinsurance Company where he was a senior A&H treaty underwriter, having begun his career there as an underwriting assistant a decade earlier.

Chris Baker, Head of Specialty Treaty at Chaucer, commented:

"I am pleased to welcome Sarfraz to Chaucer. He has a wealth of global A&H treaty underwriting knowledge and a great reputation with brokers and clients. His appointment increases our commitment to being a lead market for A&H treaty and will enable us to meet market needs more efficiently and effectively."

Sarfraz Pivano, Accident & Health Treaty Underwriter at Chaucer, added:

"I am delighted to join Chaucer's Specialty Treaty team, and I look forward to working with Chris Baker in London and Ewa Douwe Hut in Copenhagen to develop Chaucer's A&H treaty centre of excellence for brokers and clients."
