Chaucer expands Political Risk & Trade Credit Team

Chaucer, the specialist Lloyd's insurance group, has appointed Jonathan Bint as Political Risk Underwriter & Analyst.

Jonathan has been recruited to help drive Chaucer's continued expansion of their political risk and trade credit product range alongside Deborah Wyatt, Head of Emerged Markets, who joined Chaucer in March to spearhead the development of the Political Risk Team's solutions for emerged markets.

Jonathan has over two decades of financial markets experience and has worked with underwriters, regulators and rating agencies in the field of credit analysis, most recently as part of the credit and political risk underwriting team at XL Catlin.

Nick Kilhams, Head of Political Risk and Trade Credit at Chaucer commented:

"With Jonathan on board, our Emerged Markets Team is now fully in place and open for business. Jonathan is an excellent political risk analyst and in partnership with the team at Chaucer, we can now provide brokers and clients with comprehensive solutions for all their political risk and trade credit needs."

Jonathan Bint, Political Risk Underwriter & Analyst at Chaucer added:

"I have joined Chaucer at an exciting time. I am pleased to be part of this growing team as we launch our enhanced political risk and trade credit solutions to meet brokers and clients' requirements in the emerged markets."
